When someone's counting on you...

you can count on life insurance

It's always a question as to who gets the most fun out of childhood -the child or his parents? But there's no question about whose shoulders carry the responsibilities.

These responsibilities are easier to face because you own life insurance. To enable you to fit this protection to your family's special needs, your policies are flexible . . . and the services available to you through your agent are constantly being expanded.

More than 200,000 agents are continually broadening their technical knowledge . . . increasing their ability to serve policyholders. They are doing this through extensive company-conducted training courses . . . through the American College of Life Underwriters, the Life Underwriter Training Council and special courses offered by colleges and universities.

This is one of the reasons why you can count on life insurance . . . and why it is America's most widely used form of thrift.

> Take advantage of the many services your life insurance agent offers you. He is ready to help you make the most of your life insurance. Consult him whenever you have a question about your policies.

> You'll also find helpful suggestions in the new booklet, Your Life Insurance—and How to Use It. Your free copy will be mailed promptly; simply send your name and address on a postcard to Dept. E.

Financial Strength A Form Of Defense

Good citizens are perfectly willing to contribute their rightful share for the expenditures of the federal government, especially those expenditures having to do with national defense. However they have another moral duty. That duty is to keep this country strong financially by insisting that every possible effort toward economy be made. This is a vital form of defense.

The federal budget requested by President Eisenhower is $66 billions for the fiscal year starting July 1, 1956.

This is a pretty stiff reminder that the federal government is not a Santa Claus, but very much of a collector. Money received from the federal government is not "for free." It means money out of the pocket of every citizen, including those who are not on the tax rolls at all. That is because a large part of all taxes is concealed in the cost of everything consumers buy.

It must be remembered that in making this budget request President Eisenhower is not being extravagant on his own hook. At a rough guess it might be said that 99 per cent of the proposed expenditures comes about because of a vast and complex mechanism of political influence, in Congress, bureaucratic muddling and extremely technical matters which even the bureaucrats do not understand. So it is necessary to bring pressure to bear upon members of Congress to get anywhere in the economy department.

Even in the matter of defense there should be a rigid accounting, for extravagance in the Defense Department, as in all other departments, weakens the power of the government and makes the nation more vulnerable to attack by a hostile foreign power. The Hoover Commission has plainly shown that inexcusable waste has characterized some of the operations of the military services.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Rest And Repose

What Theodore Roosevelt called the "strenuous life," was a comparatively quiet way of living within the family. Since then we have been speeded up by enforced leisure. The 40-hour week leaves too many hours to fill and too little imagination goes into filling them. An old German, I know, has partly solved the problem by holding two jobs-two 40-hour week jobs-which does him no harm as a week has 168 hours.

I now loaf all but one hour a day. As I have never loafed before, I had no concept of how frightful such an ordeal can be, although I have been told that some government office-holders have evolved a method of loafing while appearing to work to keep the department payroll up to par to avoid cuts in the next budget. But prolonged doing nothing is degenerative of both the person and the spirit. To listen to radio or television by the hour is to fill time with chatter and noise. Noise is not a time-filler. It is only noise. I have never realized how ugly the human singing-voice can be if it is an uncultivated, untrained voice. I can only think of Loly Pons who is everlastingly beautiful and then some female comes on the radio which no musicologist can describe as soprano, mezzo-soprano, alto, or even a female bass. It is a loud sound, too loud for a hospital room. Whatever it is, it is not a filler of leisure and serves no good purpose. It would be better to work on the job during such hours.

The explanation for our bad hearts is that we strain them and tire them by working too hard. How hard is too hard? In the 39 years that I have been earning a living at this and related professions, I have never been tired of my work. But life has been tiring at times because it has seemed so futile. Wars and depressions and the scalawaggery of politicians, not only in this country but throughout the world in such an era, do tire and pain. One often must wonder how long the people of any country can accept the god-man worship for which Hitler set the pattern and which everybody has

It is humiliating to think that any one man is cently in the bacteriology laboraindispensable. What about all the rest of us? Are we tories of Northwestern University not indispensable? It was fortunate for Soviet Russia medical school. No one can prethat Lenin died so early; that ended the myth of the dict what the finishe product will indispensable man in that country. When I was there do but the initial tests on mice are in 1917-18. Lenin was regarded as indispensable; so encouraging. was Trotzky. Stalin exiled Trotzky who was murdered in Mexico. The work went on.

As one lies here, one knows that nobody is indispensable nor that anyone, great or small, can measure the tenure of his existence. Our lives literally hang on a thread and we might as well make the most of it while we may. One becomes so conscious of how little time there is to live while in a hospital, where those who enter are in peril and not all who exit are alive. And so one thinks about how we fill the void of leisure and how little we really do in this country to cultivate the mind and the sensibilities but sit, for hours, with legs stretched out listening to noisy, frowsy dames yell in atonalities or permit ourselves to be brain-washed by so-called commentators who in private conversation cannot speak an elevating phrase or an ennobling idea. There must be a better way to fill the leisure hours that a high standard of life and short hours of labor have brought to our people.

One lies here and thinks about such things and about what he himself has done with the years that were given him. I thought of that day in Petrograd in 1918 when I was told to be at a railroad station because I was going to leave. I was all that was left of the Russian Daily News and even that was nothing. A soldier stood outside the door; the paper was closed. As a free newspaper, it was closed forever. The train knew whether it would get there. No one knew that it would ever reach any point. In fact, our locomotive was so often taken from us that we might have been left somewhere in the snow tirst to starve, then to freeze.

But somehow we managed. We, on that train, succeeded in reaching Chinese territory and some even went to their homes. I reached my home 13 years later. But it did happen.

And that too is something that one thinks about symphony concerts, lectures by here, namely, that somehow the good Lord does look after us for a spell and we cling on to whatever we ballet. After the latter she finally are doing, sure that there must be some use to it or spoke her mind: "Confound it, we should not be doing what we do. And if one thinks Herbert, why aren't you like all that way, it is even possible to forgive the politicians other husbands who never take their frightful waste in time, earnings and human life. their wives anywhere?"

Ike's Intervention With Oil Firms In Arabia Will Be Asked By Eden

WACHINGTON - It isn't supposed to be advertised, but Prime Minister Eden is bringing with him to Washington some startling evidence about the manner in which American Oil Company royalties are being used in Saudi Arabia to stir up trouble against England and the United States. He expects to ask Eisenhower to clamp down on the Arabian-American Oil Company and the manner in which it has been subsidizing King Saud.

Here are some of the facts which Britain Intelligence has dug up in the Near East and which Eden expects to lay in Ike's lap:

1. It was American royalty money which actually paid for part of the Red arms which Egypt got from Czechoslovakia. Part of this deal was a barter for Egyptian cotton, but part also was paid for by money which the Egyptians borrowed from Saudi Arabia.

2. King Saud has offered $280,-000,000 to the government of Jordan during the next 10 years if it will stay out of the Baghdad Alliance which England organized to combat the march of Russian communism. Saud is getting this money from Aramco.

Eden also has some amazing intercepted messages showing how the Saudi Arabians have been trying to stir up unrest and using American oil royalties to do it; also an intercepted message regarding the delivery of a 25-year-old slave to King Ibn Saud.

Aramco was charged by the Senate Investigating Committee in 1948 with overcharging the U.S. Navy many millions of dollars during the war by making it pay $1.05 a barrel of oil after originally agreeing to sell it for 40 cents a barrel. The late President Roosevelt had given Saudi Arabia $99,-000,000 of lend lease on condition that the oil companies sell oil to the Navy at 40 cents a barrel.

Said the Senate Investigating Committee:

"When the United States needed oil because of its war demands, notwithstanding these prior proposals, the companies offered the Navy fuel oil at $1.05 a barrel on a take-it-or-leave-it basis. The Navy was forced to buy the oil on these terms.

"The oil companies exploited the government by exacting high prices for their products despite the assistance granted to Saudi Arabia at the companies' behest to protect and preserve the companies' concessions.

"The U. S. government clearly was defrauded because the royalty payments were not doubled."

Five months later Armstrong was amazed to learn that Marshall had secretly continued his association with the company. This came about after the SEC's executive director, Al Scheidenhelm, read in a newspaper on December 23 that Coastal Finance had gotten into financial difficulties, showed the article to Marshall and discovered that Marshall was still a director of the firm. He said that, after submitting his letter of resignation, he had "changed his mind."

Chairman Armstrong imraediately suggested that Marshall resign from the SEC. But Marshall stubbornly failed to see that he had done anything wrong and had to be "called to the table" at a full-dress meeting of the SEC on January 6 where his resignation was formally requested.

Prior to this, John V. Bowser. executive director of the SEC under former Chairman Ralph Demmler, had also developed a "conflict of interest" but was never disciplined for it.

While serving with the SEC, Bowser was simultaneously the owner of a firm called the Gateway Finance Company, which in March 1955 merged with Coastal Finance. Though the latter company was planning a new stock issue that would require SEC approval, Bowser did not resign from the SEC at the time of the merger, nor did he sell his interest in Gateway.

Bowser quietly resigned when his chief, Ralph Demmler, resigned as SEC chairman.

"I am very disturbed about the matter and am trying to forget about it as quickly as possible, Marshall told this column when asked for comment. "I've nothing to say," he concluded.

Financial Strength A Form Of Defense

Good citizens are perfectly willing to contribute their rightful share for the expenditures of the federal government, especially those expenditures having to do with national defense. However they have another moral duty. That duty is to keep this country strong financially by insisting that every possible effort toward economy be made. This is a vital form of defense.

The federal budget requested by President Eisenhower is $66 billions for the fiscal year starting July 1, 1956.

This is a pretty stiff reminder that the federal government is not a Santa Claus, but very much of a collector. Money received from the federal government is not "for free." It means money out of the pocket of every citizen, including those who are not on the tax rolls at all. That is because a large part of all taxes is concealed in the cost of everything consumers buy.

It must be remembered that in making this budget request President Eisenhower is not being extravagant on his own hook. At a rough guess it might be said that 99 per cent of the proposed expenditures comes about because of a vast and complex mechanism of political influence, in Congress, bureaucratic muddling and extremely technical matters which even the bureaucrats do not understand. So it is necessary to bring pressure to bear upon members of Congress to get anywhere in the economy department.

Even in the matter of defense there should be a rigid accounting, for extravagance in the Defense Department, as in all other departments, weakens the power of the government and makes the nation more vulnerable to attack by a hostile foreign power. The Hoover Commission has plainly shown that inexcusable waste has characterized some of the operations of the military services.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Rest And Repose

What Theodore Roosevelt called the "strenuous life." was a comparatively quiet way of living within the family. Since then we have been speeded up by enforced leisure. The 40-hour week leaves too many hours to fill and too little imagination goes into filling them. An old German, I know, has partly solved the problem by holding two jobs-two 40-hour week jobs-which does him no harm as a week has 168 hours.

I now loaf all but one hour a day. As I have never loafed before, I had no concept of how frightful such an ordeal can be, although I have been told that some government office-holders have evolved a method of loafing while appearing to work to keep the department payroll up to par to avoid cuts in the next budget. But prolonged doing nothing is degenerative of both the person and the spirit. To listen to radio or television by the hour is to fill time with chatter and noise. Noise is not a time-filler. It is only noise. I have never realized how ugly the human singing-voice can be if it is an uncultivated. untrained voice. I can only think of Loly Pons who is everlastingly beautiful and then some female comes on the radio which no musicologist can describe as soprano, mezzo-soprano, alto, or even a female bass. It is a loud sound, too loud for a hospital room. Whatever it is, it is not a filler of leisure and serves no good purpose. It would be better to work on the job during such hours.

The explanation for our bad hearts is that we strain them and tire them by working too hard. How hard is too hard? In the 39 years that I have been earning a living at this and related professions, I have never been tired of my work. But life has been tiring at times because it has seemed so futile. Wars and depressions and the scalawaggery of politicians, not only in this country but throughout the world in such an era, do tire and pain. One often must wonder how long the people of any country can accept the god-man worship for which Hitler set the pattern and which everybody has

It is humiliating to think that any one man is indispensable. What about all the rest of us? Are we not indispensable? It was fortunate for Soviet Russia that Lenin died so early; that ended the myth of the indispensable man in that country. When I was there in 1917-18. Lenin was regarded as indispensable; so was Trotzky. Stalin exiled Trotzky who was murdered in Mexico. The work went on.

As one lies here, one knows that nobody is indispensable nor that anyone, great or small, can measure the tenure of his existence. Our lives literally hang on a thread and we might as well make the most of it while we may. One becomes so conscious of how little time there is to live while in a hospital, where those who enter are in peril and not all who exit are alive. And so one thinks about how we fill the void of leisure and how little we really do in this country to cultivate the mind and the sensibilities but sit, for hours, with legs stretched out listening to noisy, frowsy dames yell in atonalities or permit ourselves to be brain-washed by so-called commentators who in private conversation cannot speak an elevating phrase or an ennobling idea. There must be a better way to fill the leisure hours that a high standard of life and short hours of labor have brought to our people.

One lies here and thinks about such things and about what he himself has done with the years that were given him. I thought of that day in Petrograd in 1918 when I was told to be at a railroad station because I was going to leave. I was all that was left of the Russian Daily News and even that was nothing. A soldier stood outside the door; the paper was closed. As a free newspaper, it was closed forever. The train knew whether it would get there. No one knew that it would ever reach any point. In fact, our locomotive was so often taken from us that we might have been left somewhere in the snow first to starve, then to freeze.

But somehow we managed. We, on that train, succeeded in reaching Chinese territory and some even went to their homes. I reached my home 13 years later. But it did happen.

And that too is something that one thinks about here, namely, that somehow the good Lord does look after us for a spell and we cling on to whatever we ballet. After the latter she finally are doing, sure that there must be some use to it or spoke her mind: "Confound it, we should not be doing what we do. And if one thinks Herbert, why aren't you like all that way, it is even possible to forgive the politicians other husbands who never take their frightful waste in time, earnings and human life. their wives anywhere?"

Ike's Intervention With Oil Firms In Arabia Will Be Asked By Eden

WACHINGTON - It isn't supposed to be advertised, but Prime Minister Eden is bringing with evidence about the manner in pany. which American Oil Company royalties are being used in Saudi Arabia to stir up trouble against England and the United States. He expects to ask Eisenhower to clamp down on the Arabian-American Oil Company and the manner in which it has been subsidizing King Saud. Here are some of the facts which Britain Intelligence has dug up in the Near East and which Eden expects to lay in Ike's lap:

1. It was American royalty money which actually paid for part of the Red arms which Egypt got from Czechoslovakia. Part of this deal was a barter for Egyptian cotton, but part also was paid for by money which the Egyptians borrowed from Saudi Arabia.

2. King Saud has offered $280,-000,000 to the government of Jordan during the next 10 years if it will stay out of the Baghdad Alliance which England organized to combat the march of Russian communism. Saud is getting this money from Aramco.

Eden also has some amazing intercepted messages showing how the Saudi Arabians have been trying to stir up unrest and using American oil royalties to do it; also an intercepted message regarding the delivery of a 25-year-old slave to King Ibn Saud.

Aramco was charged by the Senate Investigating Committee in 1948 with overcharging the U.S. Navy many millions of dollars during the war by making it pay $1.05 a barrel of oil after originally agreeing to sell it for 40 cents a barrel. The late President Roosevelt had given Saudi Arabia $99,-000,000 of lend lease on condition that the oil companies sell oil to the Navy at 40 cents a barrel.

Said the Senate Investigating Committee:

"When the United States needed oil because of its war demands, notwithstanding these prior proposals, the companies offered the Navy fuel oil at $1.05 a barrel on a take-it-or-leave-it basis. The Navy was forced to buy the oil on these terms.

Russia Bags Seven Of 24 Championships, Piles Up 60 Points

By TED SMITS CORTINA D'AMPEZZO, Italy, Jan. 29 (A)-The precision figure skating of world champion Hayes Alan Jenkins bolstered America's sagging morale in the winter Olympic Games today but Russia fattened its team lead with a third golf medal and a 21-year-old Austrian plumber streaked to victory in the men's giant slalom ski race. At the end of the third day, with seven of the 24 championships decided, the rugged Soviet athletes held a total of 60 points in the unofficial team standings with Austria closest at 29. The United States, still medal-less, was tied with Switzerland for seventh place with 61/2 points.

Sleet Slows Down Highway Travel

Icy weather over the weekend apparently was partially to blame for the highway death of a 23-year-old motorist who was killed yesterday morning in an accident near Wardensville as his car careened from ice-covered West Virginia State

The victim was John Evan Bowley of Route 1, Star Tannery, Va., who apparently was killed instantly when thrown from his car after it left the highway about one and a half miles east of Wardensville.

State Trooper Donald Burner, stationed at Moorefield, who investigated the accident, said it occurred between midnight and 10 a. m. vesterday.

Bowley's body was found about 10 feet from the wrecked car by James E. Frye, who resides about 200 yards from the scene of the accident. He discovered the accident about 9:45 a. m. and notified police and a physician.

Was Driving Alone

The car in which Bowley was traveling alone left the highway and careened across a field after knocking out two fence posts. Excessive speed was the apparent cause of the mishap, police said.

Racing Pigeons Fly For March Of Dimes

Assistant State's Attorney James S. Getty is shown releasing one of the racing pigeons who flew from Baltimore Street to their home lofts to help the annual March of Dimes drive. Each time some person made a contribution to the polio fund, a member of the Allegany Racing Pigeon Club released a pigeon to fly home. The contributor could check later and find that his bird had returned to his home loft. Some 200 pigeons were freed in Saturday's promotion in front of St. Paul's Lutheran Church. Although the funds have not been counted, it was estimated that they would exceed $100. Pictured, left to right are Robert L. Kiiffner, R. L. Spiker, chairman of the project; Getty and Joseph

Virginia Man Is Killed In Area Accident

Sleet Slows Down Highway Travel

Icy weather over the weekend apparently was partially to blame for the highway death of a 23-year-old motorist who was killed yesterday morning in an accident near Wardensville as his car careened from ice-covered West Virginia State

The victim was John Evan Bowley of Route 1, Star Tannery, Va., who apparently was killed instantly when thrown from his car after it left the highway about one and a half miles east of Wardensville.

State Trooper Donald Burner, stationed at Moorefield, who investigated the accident, said it occurred between midnight and 10 a. m. yesterday.

Bowley's body was found about 10 feet from the wrecked car by James E. Frye, who resides about 200 yards from the scene of the accident. He discovered the accident about 9:45 a. m. and notified police and a physician.

Was Driving Alone

The car in which Bowley was traveling alone left the highway and careened across a field after knocking out two fence posts. Excessive speed was the apparent cause of the mishap, police said.
